The Brookings Institution – a TÜSİAD partner – has published a comprehensive report examining the importance of including Turkey in the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) agreement

The Brookings TÜSİAD Senior Fellow and Director of the Turkey Project Kemal Kirisci published a comprehensive report entitled Turkey and TTIP: Boosting the Model Partnership with the United States.

In the report, Kirisci argues that Turkey's inclusion in the TTIP agreement could enrich the partnership between the United States and Turkey and revitalize Ankara's place in the transatlantic alliance. Citing economic, political and strategic arguments for Turkey's inclusion in the transatlantic economic partnership, Kirisci provides policy recommendations on how this might be achieved. Kirisci's report is the second in the recently established Turkey Project Policy Paper Series.

On September 3, the Brookings Institution will host a panel discussion in Washington on the significance of TTIP for Turkey. The event is part of the TÜSİAD U.S.-Turkey Forum at Brookings.
